FAQ Sheet

What is the length of time for an emergent medical assessment via video?

- Each assessment may vary and is dependent upon the openness of the patient with assessments averaging 15 – 30 minutes.

Are the patient video encounters recorded?

- All video encounter sessions are live feed with no recordings.

What does the emergent mental health assessment look like? What type of questions does the eCare nurse ask?

- The eCare assessment questionnaire consists of evidence-based screening questions to support determinations of the patient disposition. In addition, a safety plan will be completed for individuals remaining in place.

Do I need to stay with the individual during a video encounter?

- eCare does not require law enforcement remain with the individual during the assessment. At the discretion of law enforcement, when safety is a factor, they will remain within visibility of the individual until the assessment is complete.

What happens if video does not work (cannot hear, see, or the video connection is unsuccessful)?

- The eCare Behavioral Health team will be the first tier to assist with troubleshooting video connection issues by walking through a brief series of steps to test. If the Behavioral Health team is unable to resolve the issue, the Behavioral Health team will contact eCare IT for assistance. eCare IT will contact the agency to request additional troubleshooting as needed. If video is unsuccessful and at the discretion of Law Enforcement and eCare, a phone assessment may be completed to determine appropriate disposition of the individual.

How long does the battery on the iPad last?

- The battery life of the iPad will extend up to 4 hours without being plugged into power. eCare requires the iPad to be plugged into power when not in use for an assessment to ensure the battery level is charged to the fullest capacity.
